

DRIVE

YOUR CAREER FORWARD.

One mile at a time.

Driving a truck is not only fun and adventurous, but also gives you a secure career and a future where you will be in demand. The ATA estimates that the industry will need 890,000 new drivers through 2025 to meet rising demand. Entry level drivers can earn up to $50,000 per year while experienced truck drivers earn up to $85,000 per year. Owner-operators can earn up to $200,000 annually.

And the jobs aren't just for drivers. Transport Trailer Technicians with a short certificate can make more than $17 per hour. There are more and more jobs available everyday for: Structural Trailer repair, Trailer ABS, Heavy Duty Trailer Brakes and Trailer Preventative Maintenance.

Both men and women can flourish in the Transportation Management industry. Whether you're in Distribution, Logistics, Supply-chain Management or driving a truck, Wallace State's programs can help you drive your career forward—one mile at a time.
